

Matthew pulled the cord on his grandad's life jacket and on his own jacket too. The life jackets filled with air.

The boat sank quickly and Matthew was in the sea. It was icy cold. He could not see his grandad.

Matthew tried to stay awake, but he was cold. So cold. His eyes began to close.

